

English:

This week we have looked at other forms of letters, like e-mails, telegrams, postcards. We got inspiration from John Burningham's great book, John Patrick Norman McHennessy, the boy who was always late. Full of excuses about why John Patrick Norman McHennessy was late which the teacher did not believe until he was caught by a gorilla!

Maths:

We have been strengthening our work on adding and subtracting ones and tens from two digit number. We have developed several strategies: number lines, partitioning, diennes, pictures and concrete resources.

Topic:

We have been learning about other nurses, Mary Seacole in particular. She was a fascinating woman from Jamaica who was highly regarded by the British soldiers in the Crimean War.

Please remember to read with your child everyday, even 5 minutes helps, and then record the read in you child's Reading Records.

Soon we will be allocating books to the children through Bug Club.
